GENERAL NEWS.

BY TELEGRAPH TO THE OREGONIAN.

Bound for the Front.

OMAHA, May 2.—Gen. Crook, commanding the department of the Platte, sends this morning the 3d cavalry to Deming, N. M., junction of the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fee and Southern Pacific roads for duty against the Apaches. The regiment is ordered to proceed by rail with all dispatch and take camp and garrison equipage and 15 wagons and 20 days' rations. Mails and express over the southern lines are subject to interruption and the situation is quite alarming. The troops are accustomed to frontier service and will report to Gen. Willcox within three days for actual business. The Union Pacific furnishes the regiment transportation forward via Denver and Pueblo with fast trains. The 4th infantry is still under orders.

A Row among the Brethren.

BOSTON, May 2.—Rev. Wm. B. Brown, D. D., of this city, brought to the attention of the Congregational union trustees certain charges against Treasurer N. A. Calkins, superintendent of public schools at New York. The charges are in substance that, being employed by the city of New York he had been able to devote but few minutes daily to affairs of the union; that he has neglected to enforce the terms of gifts and loans made by the union, and that he has knowingly injured the financial standing of the organization by allowing money to remain in bank without interest. Dr. Brown, without notice, was supplanted by appointment of Rev. Dr. Cobb. The friends of Dr. Brown demand a full investigation and public hearing.

Longfellow's Will.

BOSTON, May 2.—Judge Brooks gave a decision to-day which sets aside several bequests in the will of Longfellow. The decision is that erasures may be considered no part of the will and interlineations of no effect. This deprives each of the children and testator's brother of a legacy of $10,000, and makes void a legacy of $5000 to his brother Stephen. The decision is made upon the ground that a will cannot be altered except by codicil. The will was admitted to probate and Ernest W. Longfellow appointed administrator in place of Richard H. Dana, named in the will.

A Fraternal Meeting.

PHILADELPHIA, May 2.—A joint meeting of regular and independent republicans have agreed on resolutions to govern the state convention on May 10th. They declare against the use of patronage for personal or political ends; against removal except for cause; for the faithful carrying out of the popular will at state and national conventions; condemning compulsory political assessments; for honesty and efficiency in office, and for a state ticket to harmonize the party. Rules were also laid down for choosing delegates to the convention.

Blooded Stock Sales.

LEXINGTON, Ky., May 2.—J. A. Grinstead to-day sold about a hundred head of thoroughbreds, including 19 yearlings. The sales aggregate $35,290, and average $360. Among the mares sold were Dolly Johnson, dam of Waverly; Income, dam of Inconnu; Macaline, grand dam of Iroquois; Kelpie, dam of Duke of Montrose; Sophy Badderly, grand dam of Mistake; Misfortune, dam of Mistake; Belle, dam of Balance. None of the young things brought high prices.

A Polygamist Arrested.

LANCASTER, Wis., May 2.—Jos. McClark, charged with attempting to practice Mormonism outside of Utah, was placed in jail here last evening. So far as heard from, Clark has been in possession of four wives, three of whom are now living. He is very quiet and has little to say, evidently recognizing his chances for a prolonged stay at Waupun penitentiary.

A Crowd of Notables.

NEW YORK, May 2.—The Gallia arrived last night. Among the passengers were Lord Randolph Churchill, Lady Churchill, formerly Miss Jerome, Lord Elphinstone, Duke of Manchester, his son Lord Mandeville, who married Miss Consuelo Yznaga, and the count and countess of Montsaulnin.

Stocks in New York.

The bulls claim that the great operators are picking up stocks. The position of the bear party appears unchanged. The latest rumor is that Vanderbilt will make a very brief stay abroad. Southern Pacific is being raided against to-day by a clique of brokers. It is said that Prof. Treadwell has gone to London and that the officers of the company are getting hold of the stock, but their manipulations are severely criticised. Some gold is said to have been engaged for the steamers sailing before Saturday. Western Union earnings increased steadily during April.

New Steamships for the Pacific Mail.

The new Pacific Mail steamer San Jose launched a few days since, will be finished as rapidly as possible, as will also her sister ships, the San Juan and San Blas. These steamers will be got round to the Pacific inside of a year, or in time to take their place in the line before the next coffee season. Probably one of them will be kept on this side. The City of Para, sister ship to the City of Rio Janeiro, will be sent in her place, however. All these will make the trip to Aspinwall and back in order to give the ships now running on the line a chance to be overhauled, which is very much needed.

Report of the Chamber of Commerce.

NEW YORK, May 2.—The twenty-fourth annual report of the chamber of commerce says: It is apparent to a close observer that the United States is entering upon a critical period in its progress when economic and financial questions require the most careful examination.

An Interesting Trial.

CHICAGO, May 2.—Jas. D. Doyle is on trial in the U. S. court on charge of having been connected with counterfeiting U. S. bonds. The case is a celebrated one, as the bonds were so skilfully wrought as to deceive the treasury and bank experts, and the amount was upwards of $200,000. This is a new trial, the former verdict against him being invalidated by an informality. There seems to be little doubt as to the facts of his guilt.

Failed to Come to Time.

CHICAGO, May 2.—A telegram was received to-night to the effect that the syndicate who purchased the Booth theater estate for $600,000 have failed to make the second payment of $125,000 on May 1st, and that Oliver Ames retains possession and has leased the theater to John Stetson.

Corner Stone Laid.

DENVER, May 2.—The corner stone of the National Mining and Industrial Exposition building was formally laid this afternoon by Gov. Pitkin in the presence of several thousand people. An eloquent oration was delivered by Hon. T. M. Patterson, and an address was made by Judge W. S. Decker. The occasion was made a partial holiday by business men and citizens. The large force of men actively employed on the building insures its completion in time to open the exposition on August 1st.

Coast Mail: The schooner Dare, launched at North Bend lately, and now about ready for sea, is a fine craft and just the kind of a vessel for this trade. She is, in size and model, somewhat like the schooner Trustee, one of the best paying vessels which runs here, and is specially adapted to the coasting trade, as she carries a good sized cargo on a light draft of water.

Mr. S. J. Lambert, proprietor of the Abbott House, Parsons, Ark., says that St. Jacobs Oil is the boss rheumatic specific. "It has cured myself and wife," said Mr. Lambert, "of rheumatism. We both had rheumatism—inflammatory rheumatism, too,—and had it bad. I believed in the remedy which every one was praising and used it. I have ever since been glad that I did so, for both my wife and myself received speedy relief and cure. The St. Jacobs Oil is a splendid curative power; in short, it is just the best of liniments."

Joseph C. Palmer, an old pioneer of California, died to-day at his home in Oakland. Deceased was 56 years of age and was connected in early days with the large banking house of Palmer, Cook & Co. This bank was established in 1849, but failed in 1856. For several years the bank did an immense business and exerted a powerful influence on the politics of the state, controlling to a large extent the political results of California. The influence of the bank was brought to bear in the election of the late David Broderick as U. S. senator and the candidacy of John C. Fremont for president. Mr. Palmer was greatly respected and his demise is sincerely regretted.

ARIZONA.

Capt. Tupper's Fight.

FORT APACHE, May 1.—A courier arrived at Fort Bowie early this morning, bringing dispatches from Capt. Tupper, of the 6th cavalry, who reports having a fight on the 28th ult. with hostiles at Cloverdale, N. M., a small place in the Las Animas mountains, just on the Arizona and New Mexico line and close to the border. Tupper lost one man, Private Goldrick, killed, and two wounded. Capt. Rafferty, 6th cavalry, had his horse shot under him during the fight. About fifteen hostiles were killed including Loco's son, and seventy-five horses were captured. Tupper soon after joined Lieut. Col. Forsyth and his command, and both are now following the trail and probably will go over the border into Mexico, as Forsyth would not hesitate to cross the line if the trail was promising. It is believed that all the Indians are entirely out of Arizona. The 1st regiment of infantry arrived at Deming to-day.

Wars and Rumors of War.

TUCSON, May 2.—Capt. Tupper telegraphs General Willcox that he struck a large force of Indians at daybreak on the 28th ult. and killed 12 or 15, among them Loco's son, captured 75 head of stock, but was unable to drive the Indians from their position. One soldier was killed and two wounded. Tupper has joined Forsyth and will follow the hostiles over the border.

TOMBSTONE, May 2.—A special courier of the Epitaph from Dragoon mountains was fired on by Indians near Helm's ranch. He returned the fire, killing one Indian. He heard rapid firing in the direction of the ranch. Several Indians appeared near Contention this evening, and Dr. Gerber had a fight with them, killing one. Fears are felt for the safety of Fort Huachuca. The families of Captains Tupper, Dove, Maxwell and four others are there and only a few men to guard the post. Volunteers are organizing.

NEVADA.

Comstock Notes.

VIRGINIA, May 2.—At Union on the 2880 level the winze is down 24 feet below the sill floor of the stopes. This is 61 feet below the 2500 level, and the bottom of the winze is still in fine ore, with no sign of the west wall. The bottom is so wet that work must be suspended a few days for it to dry out. The sill floor is now 81 feet long and from two to five sets of timbers wide on the 2600 level. On the level of the northeast drift very close to where ore is expected the face of the drift is showing improvement. Winze No. 1 on the 2600 level is in promising material, full of small seams of quartz carrying metal. The connection will be made in a day or two in the north and south drifts of the 1700 level. Mexican miners now daily work on one side the 2900 station. The joint Union and Sierra Nevada winze will be completed this week. At the Savage indications are good for finding an ore body in going north on the 2400 level.

BRITISH COLUMBIA.

The Earthquake at Victoria.

VICTORIA, May 2.—At 10:45 P. M. on Sunday night a shock of earthquake caused doors, windows and crockery in this vicinity to rattle, and somewhat alarmed new residents who are not accustomed to such sublunary emotions. The movement seemed to be from northeast to southwest. In some instances crockery was thrown from shelves. In the district some of the houses were shaken up at a livelier rate than was pleasant for the occupants. Mr. William Pollard's family sought safety by flight amid the fall of plaster, the rattling of casements and the creaking and groaning of the timbers. The house was damaged to the extent of fifty dollars. This same house was shaken severely by the earthquake of August, 1880. It is accounted for by the fact that it is built on a rock. It has always been imagined that the man whose house stands on a rock occupies a pretty sure foundation.

MEXICO.

Fight with Bandits.

YANMONA, Mexico, May 1.—A terrible battle was fought near this place to-day between a company of dragoons, under command of Cayetano Novoa, and the famous bandits known as the Teodolo caballeros. The troops were badly defeated after a hard and long fight, Novoa being killed. The robbers rode away to the mountains after the struggle.

WASHINGTON NEWS.

The Senate Amendments to the Chinese Bill Concurred In.

THE BILL TO GO TO THE PRESIDENT FOR SIGNING TO-DAY.

President Arthur Gives his First Card Reception and Receives a Big Crowd.

SPECIAL DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.

CHICAGO, May 2.—Washington special: Before Gen. Sherman departed on his executive tour of inspection of army posts in the southwest and on the Pacific coast, he caused it to be made known publicly that he was in favor of the compulsory retirement feature of the army appropriation bill and believed firmly in requiring all officers to go on the retired list upon reaching the age of 62, as provided in the bill. Something has occurred to change Gen. Sherman's views since he left Washington, as he has been telegraphing here against the enactment of this clause, without exception is made in favor of all officers of the army above the rank of colonel. The senate appropriation committee has not yet taken action on the bill, and delay has been caused by the absence of Gen. Logan, chairman of the subcommittee having the measure in charge. When Logan left for Hot Springs it was the understanding that such action should not be had on the bill till he returned. At that time it was not known General Sherman had changed his views in regard to the retirement clause, and it was thought this feature would be agreed to almost unanimously. It appears, however, as a result of Gen. Sherman's telegrams some members of the committee have also changed their views, and that the clause can now only be carried by the vote of Gen. Logan, and he is not expected back until the latter part of this week. Opponents of the retirement clause are trying to force action before Logan returns, of course with a view of defeating it in the interest of Gen. Sherman.

WASHINGTON, May 2.—The military committee will hold a special meeting to-morrow to consider the bill for compulsory retirement of army officers over 62 years of age. The committee has 800 private bills on their calendar, and in order to dispose of them will ask leave to hold a meeting during the session of the senate.

Page's Perseverance Rewarded.

Representative Page made an earnest attempt this morning to obtain the unanimous consent of the house to take the Chinese bill from the speaker's table for the purpose of acting on the senate amendments, but although ex-Speaker Randall who had previously called for regular order, withdrew his demand in order to facilitate the purpose, Briggs of New Hampshire indignant at his own failure to secure recognition from the speaker, renewed his demand as a means of cutting all miscellaneous business, and the house thereupon resolved itself into a committee of the whole to consider the tariff commission bill. The morning hour being thus dispensed with there was hardly any opportunity to-day to make a motion to proceed to business or to expect any action on the Chinese bill before to-morrow or some indefinite time thereafter. Page however patiently waited and watched for another opportunity to ask unanimous consent and found one just before the adjournment of the house, at a late hour this afternoon. The dullness of the tariff speeches and the attractions of Barnum's circus had by that time reduced the attendance of members to a small number and when Page obtained recognition of the speaker and renewed his request he ran the risk of having some one raise the point of no quorum. Cox of North Carolina in fact did interpose an objection, but under an appeal from Page he promptly withdrew it and the bill being practically brought before the house, all the senate amendments were forthwith concurred in without a dissenting voice and the bill now awaits only the necessary enrollment and signature of presiding officers of both houses in order to be submitted to the president for his approval. Speaker Keifer immediately after adjournment of the house gave orders to enrolling clerks to have the bill enrolled to-night and ready for the signature of himself and president pro tem of the senate as soon as the two houses assemble to-morrow, the rules of congress requiring that their signatures shall be affixed in open session, and it is therefore practically certain the bill will be sent to the president by 2 o'clock to-morrow afternoon. The manner in which the bill was finally pushed through this afternoon might be liable to the criticism of sharp practice were it not universally conceded that an overwhelming majority of the house has for days been ready and strongly desirous to concur in the senate amendments, and that there remains a question of time when the bill should be reached, and not in any degree a question of doubt as to the temper of the house on the amendments whenever the time should arrive.

Quick Work to be Performed.

WASHINGTON, May 1.—The president has decided to put down the Indian outbreak in Arizona as soon as possible and has so expressed himself to the secretary of war, who has been instructed to take prompt and vigorous measures to that end. Orders have been issued for additional troops to proceed to the scene of trouble and aid the troops there in preventing further violence and bringing the hostiles to speedy justice. These reinforcements will consist of the 1st infantry now in Texas, 4th infantry on the Union Pacific railroad, department of the Platte, 3d cavalry, also in department of the Platte, and part of the 6th cavalry, department of Missouri. The president is in earnest in the matter, and in the words of a prominent army officer, intends to make a clean sweep. The probabilities are that the troops that are in Arizona territory and New Mexico will be united under one commander, a brigadier-general, yet to be assigned to that duty.

A New Anti-Polygamy Bill.

Representative Haskell's bill to amend the anti-polygamy bill passed this session provides:

1. That election in Utah shall be at the time fixed by law for the election of delegates to the 48th congress and that all elections to be held at an earlier date shall be postponed to that time; that all vacancies in office resulting from the passage of the act of March, 1882, not otherwise provided for, shall be filled by the governor of the territory until other provisions be made by law for filling such vacancies; that in all prosecutions for bigamy, polygamy or unlawful cohabitation, no person shall be incompetent as witness by reason of any marriage ceremony or cohabitation between witness and accused; that the act of the legislative assembly of Utah incorporating the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints, be annulled.

Rosecrans' New Bill.

Rosecrans introduced in the house to-day a bill which was referred to the ways and means committee, relative to the removal of dutiable goods. It amends the statutes so as to provide that no merchandise, unless in bulk, shall be withdrawn from a warehouse for shipment to its destination in less than an entire package, bale, cask or box; provided that at the request of the importer, and under the supervision of customhouse officers it may be repacked in two or more packages, having the same descriptive marks as the original packages, and such other marks as the secretary of the treasury may prescribe, and provided that in case of damage to merchandise the importer may be allowed to separate damaged from undamaged goods and repair them.

The President's Reception.

President Arthur's first general card reception took place to-night. The crowd at the executive mansion was so great at 10 P. M. that many had no opportunity to reach the president, who was receiving guests in the blue room.

Congressional Notes.

Among the ayes in the vote on the bank charter resolution in the house yesterday were Belford, George, Pacheco and Page, and among the nays Berry, Cassidy and Rosecrans.

Some Conclusions of Our President.

CHICAGO, May 2.—Washington special: The president remarked to a friend a day or two ago that he had just begun to realize how virulent newspapers can be in their denunciation and abuse of objectionable official acts or unsatisfactory measures adopted by a legislature. He had observed in New York, for instance, that a few newspapers would oppose and attack bitterly men and things they might happen to dislike or disapprove, but there always were a few who would take the other side. His experience recently is different. Papers of the Pacific coast are unanimous in denouncing him because he vetoed the Chinese bill. There are no exceptions to the rule.

Cabinet Proceedings.

At the cabinet meeting to-day it was decided that the president should issue a proclamation for the lawless cowboys in Arizona to disperse, and if the order is not obeyed to use the military to enforce it. The cabinet sustained the action of the president in his message for additional legislation on the subject, and disagreed with the action of the senate judiciary committee in reporting that no further legislation was necessary. The Fitz-John Porter case was also under consideration. The Indian outbreak in Arizona was discussed, and vigorous measures determined upon by the military. All members were present except Attorney General Brewster, who is slightly indisposed.

The Land Grant Matter.

WASHINGTON, May 2.—The house committee on judiciary at a full meeting this morning, had under consideration the subject of lapsed railroad grants. The statement of the commission was fully expressed to the effect that reports upon certain roads whose business is being affected by delay should be made at once. Members of the committee are reticent as to what their action will be or what roads will be first acted upon. The Northern Pacific and Atlantic and Pacific are in the hands of the sub-committee, and friends of those roads are confidently expecting an early and favorable report.

Introduced by Rosecrans.

Representative Rosecrans filed a memorial of the San Francisco chamber of commerce setting forth the necessity for immediate erection of a storm signal at Fort Point to guide vessels into San Francisco, and a resolution of the same body favoring liberal appropriations for the U. S. hydrographic office.

Indian Troubles Reported Over.

Seattle is to have a new city hall built of brick at a cost of $6000. It will be 40x60 feet. The lower floor will be divided into a jail room of 30x40 feet, with eight cells and surrounding corridor in the rear, and engine room, sleeping room for engineer, and staircase on the front. The upper floor will be divided into a hall of 40x40 feet, a council chamber of 27x10, and three offices, each 13x27 for the clerk, treasurer and chief of police respectively.

The Puget Foundry at Seattle will soon turn out three large 12-wheeled logging cars, two for Hood's canal and one for the Skagit river. The cars are made in accordance with J. R. Williamson's ideas and under his instructions. The wheels are very wide and the flanges nine inches apart. The cars are intended to run on wooden rails 8x8 inches and a road [illegible] gauge. They are about completed and will be shipped to their destinations the last of this week.

The farmers of the Whatcom colony are busy plowing and sowing and are withal highly satisfied with the outlook for that country. A greater part of Whatcom county is strictly speaking, a rich agricultural country and only needs development to make it one of the wealthiest sections in the territory. The colony are enjoying that degree of prosperity that years of toil failed to bring them back in Kansas. Not one of them would exchange their present location for the best situated farm in the Jayhawker state.

La Conner Mail: The Olympia Marsh, consists of about 13,000 acres of fresh water marsh, extending from the Skagit river on the east to Swinomish or Padilla bay on the west, draining in the latter direction into Joe Leary's slough at the southern point of the Samish flats. As it may properly be considered a continuation of the Pleasant Ridge Beaver marsh, traversing around the Padilla ridge to the Samish, it is or will eventually be accessible from La Conner, being virtually a continuation of Swinomish flats. As stated, it contains about 13,000 acres, and it only being open to pre-emption and homestead, it can only be reclaimed by a systematic combination of an association of 70 or 80 settlers, with a fund of about ten or fifteen thousand dollars to cut the main ditches—say one through the center and one on both sides. It is subject to overflow from the Skagit, but about three hundred rods of dyke and a dam or two would sufficiently protect it; the balance of the work of reclamation would consist of ditching and draining. It will be difficult to get a sufficient number of settlers to organize for the completion of the work, and yet that appears to be the only way of getting at it. Capitalists would readily undertake the work, but the land is not subject to private entry or purchase. It will doubtless remain as it is until the admission of the territory into the union, when the state will claim it as swamp and overflowed land, in which event the state may sell the whole tract to an association or company.

SUPREME COURT.

SALEM, May 2.

Court met at 10 A. M.; full bench present.

John Smith and John Baker, appellants, vs Thos. Eglin, respondent; judgment of the court below reversed. Opinion by Waldo, J.

T. E. bought personal property of J. E. and agreed, as a discharge of a part of the purchase money, to pay certain debts owed by J. E. to certain of his creditors. Before T. E. had paid such debts, and before said creditors had made known to him that they would look to him for their money, other creditors of J. E. served process of garnishment upon T. E. Held, That T. E. was liable to such creditors for the amount of money remaining unpaid and in his hands at the date of service of process. (18 Kan., 470; 11 Cal., 342; 51 Ga., 325; 12 La., 282.)

The judgment heretofore rendered in this cause, modified as prayed for in the petition for rehearing, ordered to stand as the judgment of the court, and the judgment of the court below is accordingly reversed.

Wm. Whitlock, resp., vs. Peter C. Maurer and John Bigler, executors of Pierce Maurer, deceased, appts.; appeal from Multnomah county. Judgment of the lower court affirmed. Opinion by Watson, J.

SYLLABUS.

1. The alteration of a promissory note by a stranger, without intent to cancel and extinguish it, allows no presumption of its payment, and does not destroy its obligation.
2. Evidence of a debtor's ability to pay at a date is inadmissible to prove that a note given to payment thereof, and endorsed by a third party, to a creditor for that purpose was signed by the latter for the accommodation of such endorser.
3. When the language of a finding is equivocal the construction which accords with the pleadings and supports the judgment should be adopted.

Ordered that the court stand adjourned until to-morrow at 10 o'clock A. M.

War on the West Coast of Africa.

LONDON, May 2.—A dispatch from Bonny, on the west coast of Africa, dated April 23d, reports there has been heavy fighting between the natives of New Calabar and followers of Oko Jumbo. The latter were the aggressors. The slaughter is described as fearful, at least 2000 persons being killed. It was feared Jaja would take part in the fighting, thus causing a war which would become a wholesale carnage. There was much alarm among the English inhabitants. It is expected two gunboats will be ordered to the scene.

PARNELL, DILLON AND O'KELLY RELEASED FROM JAIL.

Secretary Forster Resigns his Position and the Coercion Act Withdrawn—Gladstone's New Policy Laid Down.

SPECIAL DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.

LONDON, May 2.—Gladstone, in the commons, made an announcement similar to that of Earl Granville in the house of lords. Gladstone stated that a large number of other suspects would be released, and the government, instead of renewing the coercion act, would introduce a measure remedying the administration of justice in Ireland. He said instructions had already been sent to Ireland for the release of the three imprisoned members of parliament, and that the list of suspects were being carefully considered, with a view to the release of all except those who were arrested on suspicion of having been personally concerned in outrages. These releases would be on the government's sole responsibility. Gladstone stated Forster had resigned because he was not willing to share the responsibility, and that Forster would make a personal explanation Thursday. The measure which the government will introduce remedying the administration of justice in Ireland deals with protection of life and property. Sexton, at the conclusion of Gladstone's remarks, said the government had taken the first step in a policy that would crown its administration with glory, and would produce a mutual interest between Ireland and England.

Speaking with reference to the coercion act, Gladstone made a special reservation that if peace and security be jeopardized by the action of secret societies the government would consider it its duty to propose counteracting measures. He declared that the government did not think the coercion act had failed, as it had served an important purpose in a great crisis. He warmly commended the manner in which Forster had performed his duties, and expressed regret at his retirement. Gladstone declared that none of the measures announced in the queen's speech at the opening of the session, except the resolution in regard to rules of parliamentary procedure, would be allowed to stand in the way of any measure which the government might introduce restoring peace and order in Ireland.

Granville explained that Earl Cowper had not resigned the lord lieutenancy on account of any difference with the government in regard to its policy. He confirmed the report that Lord Carlingford would temporarily take the presidency of the council during Earl Spencer's absence in Ireland.

An English Hurricane.

NEW YORK, May 2.—The Herald's London special says: London, on Saturday, was visited by a gale of wind which, gradually increasing in force, finally blew a hurricane for a short time, about 6 o'clock in the evening. It prevailed generally over the southern and western parts of England during Saturday evening and night. Widespread damage and serious loss of life are reported in and about the metropolis. The disastrous effects of the storm are still visible at sea. Shipping has been greatly impeded and there were many casualties. At Dover, Swansea, Brighton, Portsmouth, Plymouth and other places on the coast the storm was very severe and caused great damage and loss of life. There was a heavy sea in the channel and several disastrous wrecks are reported. A Danish brig was wrecked near Dover and four men drowned. Some of the channel steamers could not make their port. There were no letters from London to Paris on Sunday morning. It is feared that accounts of wrecks and of missing vessels during the next few days will be distressing in the extreme.

The Evening News says: We shall hope to have, in a few days, some specific account of this remarkable hurricane, which was as sudden in its arrival as intense in its character. At Liverpool and other places on the west coast the cold was intense. Snow fell in Rome last night.

The Release of Irish Suspects.

LONDON, May 2.—The Times states that it will be formally decided to-day whether suspects are to be liberated. Correspondence between Great Britain and the United States relative to suspects will show there has been no weak acknowledgment of pretension inconsistent with international law and common sense. Great Britain has firmly maintained the position that an American Irishman in Ireland must submit like other Irishmen to laws deemed necessary by parliament. It is in deference to the comity of nations, and not to any claim of right, that prisoners of American nationality were offered their liberty if they would leave the country. If some of them foolishly and insolently refuse to give such a pledge they must take the chance of remaining in jail as long as the executive deems necessary. It is, however, no longer doubtful that the cabinet is considering whether prisoners may not be liberated, except those arrested on suspicion of being personally concerned in outrages.

A Ministerial Crisis at Hand.

LONDON, May 2.—The Standard says: There can be no longer any doubt that we are in the midst of a ministerial crisis. At the cabinet council yesterday decisions were arrived at whereof the first consequence will be Forster's resignation.

The News says: It is a question whether Forster will not be sooner or later involved in the decision of the cabinet with regard to their policy toward Ireland.

Items from Ireland.

DUBLIN, May 1.—It is reported that a farmer named Skuilie has been murdered and two arrests were made.

The American consul visited Brophy in Naas jail and offered him £40 provided he would leave the country. Brophy said that he would accept only an unconditional release.

The Released Members.

DUBLIN, May 2.—Parnell, Dillon and O'Kelly have been released from Kilmainham jail. After their release they drove up on the outskirts of the city to Harcourt station, where they took the train for Avondale, the residence of Parnell, where they will remain two days and will arrive in London Friday.

Lord Granville stated that reconsideration of prisoners' cases would not extend to the case of Michael Davitt.

O'Donnell's Amendment Defeated.

LONDON, May 1.—Consideration of the cloture resolution was resumed, and O'Donnell's amendment, that the initiative of closing debate be taken by responsible men and not by the speaker, was rejected—220 to 134. Debate then adjourned.

Good News for Land Leaguers.

In the house of lords Earl Granville announced the resignation of Forster as chief secretary for Ireland, and the intention of the government to release the three imprisoned members of parliament.

The Treaty of Commerce.

PARIS, May 2.—Premier DeFreycinet to-day received the bureau committee on the Franco-American treaty. One of the spokesmen stated that the American opinion seemed to be changing from the system of high tariffs. He thought the present was an opportune time for endeavoring to improve the commercial relations with the United States. DeFreycinet replied he was favorable to the idea of a treaty of commerce between the two republics. He was pleased to hear of the change of opinion in America and thought there was consequently good reason for resuming pour parlers. He said he had already acquainted Roustan of his desire in this respect and would now give precise instructions. The deputation retired well satisfied with DeFreycinet's declaration.

Danenhower's Arrival at St. Petersburg.

ST. PETERSBURG, May 2.—Lt. Danenhower, seaman Cole and the Chinese steward of the Jeannette have arrived here. Newcombe will arrive Tuesday. Cole is completely demented and sometimes also unmanageable. The American legation will give an entertainment in their honor Wednesday. Danenhower seems convinced that De Long will never be found alive. After a few days the party will proceed to Paris. Lt. Danenhower contemplates reading a paper before the Royal Geographical society on the possibilities of trade on the north coast of Siberia. He is loud in his praise of the Russians for the kind manner in which he and his companions have been treated.

Will Ask for a Reduction.

BERLIN, May 1.—During the debate on the customs tariff in the reichstag, the united left intend to move for reduction of duties on articles of consumption.

ST. PETERSBURG, May 2.—After six weeks' trial for embezzlement of state money four functionaries of the ministry have been sentenced to deprivation of rank and nobility and exiled. Eight others were acquitted.

Correspondence in Relation to the Subject Between the United States and Russia.

[SPECIAL DISPATCH TO THE OREGONIAN.]

WASHINGTON, May 2.—The correspondence respecting the condition of Israelites in Russia, sent to congress to-day is very voluminous, and includes all written on the subject during the last ten years. The last letter written by the secretary of state in this regard is as follows:

DEPARTMENT OF STATE, WASHINGTON, April 15.

Wickham Hoffman, Esq., etc., etc., St. Petersburg—Sir: The prejudices of race and creed having in our day given way to claims of our common humanity, the people of the United States have heard with great regret the stories of sufferings of Jews in Russia. It may be accounts in the news papers are exaggerated, and the same may be true of some private reports. Making, however, due allowance for misrepresentations, it can scarcely be doubted that much has been done which a humane and just person must condemn. The president of course feels that the emperor should not be held morally responsible for acts he considers wrong, but which he may be powerless to prevent. If that be true of this case it would be worse than useless for me to direct you as representative of the United States to give official expression to the feeling which this treatment of Jews calls forth in this country. Should however the attitude of the Russian government be different and should you be of the opinion that more vigorous efforts might be put forth for the prevention of this great wrong, you will if a favorable opportunity offers, state with all proper deference that the feeling of friendship which the United States entertain for Russia prompts this government to express the hope that the imperial government will find means to cause the persecution of these unfortunate fellow beings to cease. This instruction devolves a delicate duty upon you and wide discretion is given in its execution. However much this republic may disapprove of affairs in other nations it does not conceive that it is its right or province officiously and offensively to intermeddle. If however it should come to your knowledge that any citizens of the United States are made victims of persecution, you will feel it your duty to omit no effort to protect them and report cases to this department. I am, sir, your obedient servant, FRED'K T. FRELINGHUYSEN.

It appears from correspondence between Minister Foster and Secretary Blaine that the action of Russian authorities towards American citizens was of two kinds:

1. Absolute prohibition of residence in St. Petersburg and other cities of the empire on the ground that Russian law permits no native Jew to live there and that the treaty between Russia and the United States gives to our citizens in Russian jurisdiction no other rights or privileges than those accorded native Russians.
2. Permission of residence and commerce conditioned on belonging to the first guild of Russian merchants and taking out a license.

In a letter from Secretary Blaine to Minister Foster under date of July 29, 1881, the former says:

In any case arising this government would hold the treaty of 1832, conferred specific rights on all American citizens in the matter of disposition of their personal property, irrespective of any conditions save those which the treaty expressly creates, and that their actual presence when necessary to protect or assure their interests is absolutely guaranteed whenever and for whatsoever time it may be needful, and that this international engagement supersedes any municipal rule or regulation which may interfere with free action of such individuals. I need hardly enlarge on this point. The government of the United States concludes its treaties with foreign states for equal protection of all classes of American citizens. It can make absolutely no discrimination between them whatever as to their origin or creed, so that they abide by the laws at home or abroad. It must give them due protection and expect like protection for them. Any unfriendly or discriminating act to them on the part of a foreign power with which we are at peace, would call for our earnest remonstrance, whether a treaty existed or not. It is therefore a source of unfeigned regret to us when a government to which we are allied by so many historical ties as to that of Russia, shows a disposition in regard to its dealings with us to take advantage of technicalities.

In response to this communication under date of Oct. 3, 1881, Hoffman, secretary of the legation, wrote Secretary Blaine that the Russian minister of foreign affairs still maintained the view that in the treaty of 1832 the words "on condition of their submitting to laws and ordinances then prevailing", subjected American Jews to the same treatment as native Jews. These views had also been given representatives of other foreign powers. The Russian minister said that as regards the moral side of the question he would personally be glad to see important modifications made in the laws regarding the condition of Jews in Russia, but they had brought much of the harshness of those laws upon themselves.

The president's message is formal in transmitting the document, and makes no comment or recommendation.

GOOD FOR SORE EYES.

THIS IS TO CERTIFY THAT IN JUNE, 1881, I had acute inflammation in my eyes, and in spite of all the doctors did I received in Oregon my eyes continued to get worse, until at length I became helplessly blind. In August I went to San Francisco and was under the treatment of two oculists of considerable repute. One was a professor of diseases of the eye, and I remained under his care one month, but continuing to get worse, I changed to another so-called specialist, to find I was only jumping out of the frying-pan into the fire. I next consulted Dr. Pardee, 311 Clay street, San Francisco. His treatment relieved me from the very first, and I continued to improve day by day, until I could see to read as well as any one. I found his treatment both simple and mild, different from any and all other treatments I had received. My residence is in Astoria, Oregon. Insert this card at my own expense out of pure gratitude to Dr. Pardee and without his knowledge, to let any similarly afflicted know where to go to get their eyes cured, as I have been through the mill and speak from a sad experience. ma15w HENRY HARRISON.

THE MISSISSIPPI LEVEES.

Referring to the message of the president recommending appropriation of a large sum to rebuilding the levees of the lower Mississippi river, Senator Harrison of Indiana made a very able argument in the senate last week. His speech has been pronounced to be, "all things considered, the most statesmanlike that has been heard in the senate chamber this session." Mr. Harrison began by laying down the proposition not to be controverted that the admiralty jurisdiction of the United States extends to the Mississippi river. No state, unless by national authority, can put a bridge-pier in the bed of a river. The possession of this jurisdiction carries with it, as Mr. Harrison argued, the duty to regulate and, if necessary, to improve the navigation of the river, to remove unnecessary obstructions, to straighten and deepen the channel when such improvement can be made at reasonable expense, and to take exclusive control of the river so far as it shall be subject to the supervision of the government. Railway corporations unite the functions of common carriers and the owners of a highway, but all citizens may enjoy the rights of the former on the water ways, and the government alone can exercise the rights of the latter. Hence, the duty is enjoined upon the government of fulfilling the obligations of an owner toward the Mississippi river. Mr. Harrison showed that the value of grain shipments to Europe prior to 1876, when the jetties were constructed, never exceeded in one year $2,000,000, whereas in 1881 they amounted to more than $16,000,000. They are therefore, eight times as great now as they used to be. The existence of this channel of transportation acts as a check upon all the east-and-west lines of railroad, and reduces by a vast sum the aggregate cost of sending our surplus crops abroad. It is the part of simple economy, therefore, for the government to maintain the efficiency of this great waterway at the highest possible point consistent with a prudent expenditure of the public money.

But the argument which justifies a reasonable appropriation for the improvement of the channel of the river totally prohibits a policy of building or maintaining levees at the public expense. The admiralty jurisdiction of the United States does not extend to levees or the lands reclaimed by them. Levees are built for private or local purposes, to protect the lands of individuals from overflow. They are not an indispensable auxiliary of any system of improving the channel of the river. If they have such an effect at all it is only remotely, by increasing the scouring power of of the river. It is a remarkable fact not sufficiently noticed or insisted upon by Senator Harrison, that the demand for levees is greatest in sections of the country where the navigable depth of water is most satisfactory all the year round. Levees are intended to protect the country against high water, and the evil they design to remedy arises from too much navigation. On the other hand, an honest and intelligent system of river improvement must be based on the primary idea of caring for the river in seasons of low water, and the need of it springs from too little water in some places.

Senator Harrison fully believes in the efficacy of jetties as a means of removing sandbars and shallows. But as he referred in the course of his speech with some scorn to Captain Eads' power of "amplifying things," it would seem at least to be clear that he has not been a docile pupil at the feet of that apostle of "addition, division and silence." Whatever may be thought of the merits of the plan for improving the river which the senator has approved, he is entitled to the credit of entire sincerity and integrity in advocating it.

Senator Harrison made but this passing allusion to the outlet system, and devoted his main energies to the levees, which, in the guise of national works, together with the advocates of them, he completely demolished. The arguments of Jonas and Garland were turned upon their authors with telling effect. "If it were true," said Mr. Harrison, "that the land is to be saved by the levees and the crops raised on them were so immensely valuable, why should they not bear the expense of their own protection? On Senator Jonas' own showing a tax of $1 an acre on the lands to be benefited would build all the levees needed, and an annual tax of four cents an acre would keep them in repair after they should be built. Jonas said the south had a perfect system of levees before the war. Then why should they not have such a system now at their own expense? The fact that they rebelled against the general government is no special reason why they should be reimbursed for any of their losses on that account out of the national treasury." Thus Senator Harrison took up the arguments of the lower Mississippi senators one by one and pierced them with remorseless logic.

MARRIAGE INSURANCE.

Among the clap-trap enterprises of the time, and there are many, none is more contemptible or disgusting than the marriage insurance scheme. Nearly allied to this is the graveyard or burial insurance business. Several companies, among them a local one, are operating in this state, unmindful alike of the disgust which decent people feel for them and of the condemnation of courts of justice. Already many of the companies so started have had their brief day, leaving their dupes sadder and, it is to be hoped, wiser. There are many reasons why such corporations should neither be created nor tolerated.

Some of these reasons are well stated by Judge Ross of Montgomery county, Pennsylvania, who, in denying applications for charters for the marriage insurance companies in November last, said that such charters should be denied: "First, because the companies enlarge the circle of mercenary motives prompting to marriages and tend to make money the sole motive, which is contrary to good morals. Second, they encourage frauds in marriage and upon innocent parties; a premium will be placed on bigamy and unsuspecting men and women will become the prey of matrimonial sharpers. Third, they tend to increase divorces and the collusion and fraud by which divorces are often procured. Fourth, they offer an inducement to allege marriage where none exists and thus throw a cloud on the legitimacy of issue. Fifth, they tend to encourage marriages between parties physically and mentally immature." The judge added: "A great moral writer has said that the two great pillars of society are the sanction of an oath and the institution of marriage. This court will not lend its aid to sap the foundation of either. Such, however, would be the effect of incorporating societies of this character. It must be understood, therefore, that this court will refuse all such applications."

If the reasons given are sound, and we believe them to be, it follows that all such contracts being against public policy, are necessarily as illegal and void as a simple marriage brokage contract. The latter sort of contract, when subjected to a legal test, has always been held to be void, for substantially the same reasons as those urged by Judge Ross when denying the applications for charters for marriage insurance schemes. But if these contracts are void as being against public policy, no action can be maintained by either of the parties to them, the company can neither recover the stipulated premium for the insurance, nor the policy holder the amount agreed to be paid by the company. The law would refuse its protection to each upon the ground that both are in the wrong, that "no polluted hand shall touch the clear fountain of justice," and for the further reason that "where both parties are in the wrong the cause of the defendant is the better."

PATRIOTISM IN PRIVATE LIFE.

Of all the enlightened people of Europe, the last to emigrate in search of wealth are the Scotch. Poor the Scotchman may be, but proud as Lucifer he is, beyond all doubt. It is told that on the day before the marriage of Princess Louise, two Highlanders met and passed the time of day: "Well, Angus, what's a' the steer?" "Hech, the McCallum More's son's gang to be marrit." "To wha, Donald?" "Ye ken the queen, it be her dochter." "Eh, the queen maun be a happy woman." The love of the spot where he was born is the Scotchman's greatest virtue. Robert Alexander, of Kentucky, was born on the Big Spring farm in that state. When the Airdire estates in Scotland were devised to him, he sold them out and brought the money to Kentucky to beautify and adorn his birthplace. It is love of home, therefore, that begets patriotism in the human heart; and as there can be no such thing as honor in public life without honesty in private life, so there can be no patriotism without love of home.

We have noticed at various times in Oregon and California, but more particularly in our sister state, a class of men who endeavor to reap where they do not sow. We allude to the class of men who board at hotels in San Francisco, Sacramento or Stockton, and go out about once a month to spend a day or two on their farms in the interior of the state. These farms are under the supervision of a foreman, who lives in a sort of shanty with a Chinese cook, while the hands spread their blankets on the barn floor wherever they can find a clean spot. There is nothing homelike about the place and it is a temporary abode for a lot of moneyless, conscienceless tramps. All this is wrong.

As a contrast to that way of living, we gave two weeks ago a description of Gen. Harding's Belle Meade farm near Nashville, Tenn., on which that enterprising and public spirited old gentleman has resided for nearly fifty-five years. During that time he has followed no other avocation than farming and stock breeding, and yet he is worth nearly two million dollars. We gave nearly three columns of space to advertising the enterprises of a man who is not among our patrons and who probably never will be. We did so with a purpose. His example was worth something to this country, and for the good of this country we published a very lengthy account of Gen. Harding's enterprises. His chances in Tennessee were no better than those of scores of men who are daily arriving in Oregon.

Tennessee then had her broad rivers and so now have we. She had no canals nor portage roads around the rapids on her rivers, as we have had for the past fifteen years. If anything, therefore, we have the advantage over Tennessee in the days when Harding laid the foundation of his ample fortune. In most of the interior towns of California men work for years and years together, to enable them to amass enough to pull up stakes and go to live in San Francisco. In Oregon we notice with regret a like desire to flock to Portland. This is not in accordance with sound principles of finance and domestic economy.

When Gen. Harding was asked to set a price on the farm upon which he had lived for half a century, he said: "A principality should not buy Belle Meade." There was patriotism. It was the work of a life, the creation of that home, and he did not love money well enough to sell it. We need this kind of patriotism to make Oregon a good state. We have scores of undeveloped Belle Meades, but the great want is a few more Hardings. Such men, even if they do not bring a dollar with them into this state, are worth millions for the sake of their example.

Stick to the farm, good men, stick to the farm. Oregon's wheat fields are not worked out, and "there's life in the old land yet." We want men who will adorn and beautify homes in the country; and we want women who will be satisfied with homes in the country and not sigh to get to a city where they can spar society for a living. The wealth of every country depends not upon its merchants, its lawyers, its doctors or its divines. It depends upon the industry, the intelligence and the honesty of its primary producers. And just in ratio as the intelligence and industry of our farmers are advanced by a liberal system of popular education, just so must the wealth of the state advance also.

THE NAVIGATION LAWS.

Americans have lost their supremacy on the ocean, and it has passed into other hands and under another flag because the government has foolishly discriminated against that branch of our industry. In the beginning of our history the laws on the shipping question were all in favor of American ships and American shipowners. The navigation statutes dating back to 1792 fostered, protected, encouraged the American sailor and the sailing merchant. To-day they are all against them. In carrying out the absurd policy of protection we have destroyed the American carrying trade on the seas, robbed our people of one hundred million dollars a year—the profits of ocean transportation—and turned it into the pockets of foreigners. The coasting trade remains to us, but the conditions under which it exists are so severe that only a slender margin of profit is left. National, state and municipal legislators have united in what appears to be a crusade against the shipping interest. While nearly all our railroad lines have been aided by legislation, have been granted special privileges, have been given charters which enable them to "water" their stock, have been protected in every way possible, the owner of the coasting steamer and of the sailing vessel has been compelled to pay the most onerous taxes, port charges, harbor dues and innumerable other vexatious imposts. The shipowner meets the taxgatherer—federal, state or municipal—at every turn. He cannot enter port or leave it, touch a dock, cast anchor or haul it up, without paying some wretched toll or number of tolls that in the aggregate amount to what is little short of confiscation. Under the laws as they stand the owner of a ship valued at half a million dollars pays, whether she is employed or not, whether she is earning money or losing it, taxes amounting to between ten and fifteen thousand dollars a year.

The committee on commerce of the house of representatives have this whole question under consideration now. It is to be hoped that they will deal with it in a wise, broad manner. The American shipowner and the American sailor are entitled to some consideration,—to fair play. Let us not forever drive our flag from the ocean.

It may well be doubted if it is worth while to increase the number of lawyers in the United States, but there is no question that it is very desirable to raise the standard of legal education and equipment. Moreover, there is a prevailing sentiment in the community that the liberal and complete education of lawyers is calculated to raise the standard of professional morals as well as professional ability. Convictions of this nature have no doubt had their effect in securing the generous co-operation of individuals in the recent efforts of the law school of Harvard University to raise materially the standard of professional education. Instead of eighteen months, the school now requires a three years' course of study and a series of rigid examinations before admitting any person to its degree. The number of instructors and of professors has been increased and additional courses of lectures have been established.

The charters of 592 national banks will expire before the first of February next. In loans, notes and bonds deposited to secure notes, these banks represent a volume of currency and business amounting to $800,000,000. The sudden withdrawal of such a volume from the channels of business and currency would precipitate a crisis. A mere uncertainty as to whether the charters of the banks are to be renewed, will have a depressing effect upon finance and business. To forestall dangerous contingencies, and to avoid increasing the uncertainties that already hang around our currency system, provision should be promptly made for renewing the bank charters. There is no occasion for any trifling procrastination in regard to this matter.

The steamship Alaska, of the Guion line, arrived at Queenstown yesterday six days, 21 hours and 40 minutes from New York, the fastest trip by several hours ever made. The distance is 3102 miles, so the Alaska's average time was about nineteen miles per hour.

Coercion in Ireland has failed, and there is a crisis in Irish affairs. Parnell, Dillon and Sexton, the three Irish members of parliament, imprisoned under the act, have been released without condition; and Forster, lord-lieutenant, has resigned.

The house has concurred in senate amendments to the Chinese bill, which now only awaits the signature of the president of the senate, speaker of the house and President Arthur to become a law.

THE CANADIAN PACIFIC.

INTERVIEW WITH MR. TILTON, THE ENGINEER IN CHARGE.

Present Status of the Work and what is Expected to be Accomplished This Year—10,000 Men to be at Work This Summer.

Mr. Edward G. Tilton, of Yale, B. C., contractor's chief engineer and general superintendent of the Canadian Pacific railway, arrived in the city a few days ago and is registered at the Esmond. In answer to the request of the OREGONIAN representative, Mr. Tilton gave the following information concerning the western division of the colossal enterprise undertaken by the Canadian government. Last February a contract for building eighty-five miles from Emory (a point five miles below Yale) to Port Moody, the western terminus, at the head of Burrard's inlet, was let to Mr. Andrew Onderdonk and associates, and the work of clearing and bridging is already under way. Grading will begin about the 20th of this month. Arrangements have been made for the importation of 5,000 Chinese to arrive within sixty days. Two vessels with 1200 coolies arrived last month and the men are now at work. Five thousand men will be put on the line between Emory and Port Moody and a like number on the Fraser river.

The work thus far on the Fraser river has resulted in the completion of 23 miles of track, under the contract secured in 1880, northeast from Emory. Above these 23 miles 1260 men have been at work for 18 months, and the grade from the 60th to the 70th mile is nearly completed. The work from Emory to Thompson's river, a distance of 62 miles, is probably the most difficult and expensive on the North American continent. Fraser river is bordered with steep, rugged mountains of solid granite from 1000 to 4000 feet high. In the first 17 miles there are 13 tunnels—4 in one mile and 6 in another 2 miles. Mr. Onderdonk's contracts include, in addition to the 85 miles above mentioned, the line from Emory to Kamloops Lake, a distance 127 miles, which was originally divided into four contracts. The total number of tunnels is 27, and the longest is 1500 feet. Six Ingersoll drills, operated by compressed air, were used at each end, and 6 feet advance was made every 24 hours. On the division above Emory there are no less than 600 trestles and bridges, and in the last 65 miles more than 100. The embankments at formation level are 17 feet wide and cuts 22 feet. Tunnels are 22 feet wide and 21 feet high. None other than 56-pound steel rails are used.

In the upper section of the work there are 10,000,000 cubic yards of earth excavation, 3,300,000 cubic yards of rock, exclusive of tunnels, and 2,000,000 cubic yards of loose rock and cemented gravel excavation. Between 30,000,000 and 40,000,000 feet of timber, board measure, are required for structures over the entire contracts. The rock is of the hardest, compact granite, in which often occur wide and extremely hard quartz veins. For miles the road is literally hewn out of the sides of cliffs. The approaches to many of the tunnels are "galleried," i. e. the cliffs are left overhanging the roadway, unsupported by any outer wall. At the eastern approach to tunnel No. 7 for over 150 feet, the bluff is galleried and overhangs the roadway 21 feet in width or two feet outside the roadbed, below which is an almost perpendicular precipice of 200 feet. The Fraser rises in many places 100 feet. At Hell gate, which closely resembles the dalles of the Columbia, the river is but 120 feet wide. The first tunnel is at the north end of Yale, and the first four happen within a mile and a half of the town. It required eighteen months to build the first two miles, working tunnels night and day. From one point, six tunnels are visible at a glance. Grades and curves are moderate, the heaviest grade being fifty feet to the mile. The company have constructed a pack trail along ten miles of the line at a cost of $5000. Transportation by other means than the backs of men and mules over this distance was impossible. Although several hundred tons of powder have been used, few lives were lost. Deaths from violence numbered twenty-two. The health of the men is now excellent.

To carry on the work, required the investment of $150,000 on the "plant" alone. For massiveness and grandeur the scenery is unrivaled in North America, and the cloud effects are beautiful beyond comparison.

The line follows west bank of the Fraser to a point 3 miles below Lytton, where Thompson river empties into the Fraser. Here the latter river will be crossed by an iron and steel bridge to cost $300,000. The line will then follow the south bank of the Thompson to Kamloops Lake. The contractors expect to have completed, by the end of this year, 120 miles of grade, and have 50 miles of track in operation. The first two miles north from Emory cost a trifle over $200,000 per mile, and eleven miles from the 18th to the 29th cost $175,000 per mile. The average cost per mile of the upper division (along Fraser and Thompson rivers) will be over $75,000 per mile. This does not include cost of rails and fastenings, which are furnished by the government. The 212 miles from Port Moody to Kamloops lake will be, exclusive of rails, $12,000,000. The company have at Yale their own nitro glycerine and powder works, with a capacity of 4000 lbs per day, car and machine shops and all supply departments. They have employed since the beginning of the work from 3000 to 3500 men. A considerable portion of their supplies are landed from ocean craft at New Westminster, and conveyed by steamers ninety miles to Emory, the base of operations, where the company have an incline to the steamboat landing. A steamer is under construction and will be launched in a few days, for navigation of the upper Fraser between Boston bar and the mouth of Thompson river. Capt. Nat. Lane will be in command. The boat is intended for transportation of supplies, and will be the first to ascend above Boston bar. Mr. Tilton has brought over some excellent photographs of scenery along the Fraser, showing besides the very difficult character of the work, the progressive stages of the road.

Mr. Tilton will be remembered as a surveyor of the Northern Pacific railroad in 1870-71, and an engineer at the Willamette locks and other works. In 1875 he went to Peru, where he was in the employ of Henry Meiggs as resident engineer of the Cuzco railway across the eastern range of the Andes. For the last two years he has had charge of the Canadian Pacific railway—a merited recognition of his ability. He is a son of the late Gen. James Tilton, who was well known over the Pacific coast.

Mr. Tilton, accompanied by his wife, leaves this morning for a week's trip to the Pend d'Oreille country.

THE HOMEOPATHS

Annual Meeting of the State Medical Society—Election of Officers—Various Lectures.

The seventh annual meeting of the Oregon State Homeopathic Medical society began its sessions yesterday morning at the office of Drs. Bird & Brown.

The president, Dr. H. McKinnell, called the society to order.

The executive committee, Drs. Bird, Wilcox and Brown, reported the names of those present, together with the subjects of papers to be presented, and specified a certain number to be read at the afternoon session, to which visitors were invited.

The treasurer's report showed money on hand, and advised remission of dues for this year, as no funds are needed beyond actual expenses.

Election of officers for the coming year resulted as follows:

President—Dr. Wm. Geiger, Forest Grove, (unanimous.)
1st Vice President—Dr. A. Pohl, Portland.
2d Vice President—Dr. O. B. Bird, Portland.
Sec'y and Treas'r—S. A. Brown.
Censors—Drs. McKinnell, Pohl and C. E. Geiger, Portland; Henderson, of Salem; Smith of Corvallis.

This ended the routine business, leaving only the regular work of the society,—papers and reports on medical subjects, and discussion of such cases as are of special interest.

At the afternoon session the first paper presented was by Dr. S. A. Brown, on Pott's disease. The onset is insidious, among the first symptoms being a rigidity of the spine, causing the patient to turn the whole body when desiring to look around. A persistent pain in the back is a dangerous sign. The disease is usually seen in children, and is nearly always built upon a scrofulous basis. The doctor gave many interesting facts and ended with a lucid description of the process of applying the plaster of paris bandage.

Mrs. Dr. Bird appeared by invitation, with an article showing the progress of homeopathy during the last year. This lady has proved herself an able statistician, not only at this time, but on a former occasion, critically examining over 700 biographical sketches, making copious notes and references for publication. The paper will be published in full by vote of the society.

Dr. Bird, on "Deaths from foul air," made the startling announcement that nearly or quite one-half of the million annual deaths in the United States are caused by vitiated air, and are therefore preventable. Cottier, the ventilator, who was present, gave as a reason why physicians favor good ventilation, that without it patients die and furnish no more bills; whereas, by ventilating, they live, and continue to furnish a support for the doctors,—for there will be some sickness even with the best arrangements. Dr. Wilcox reported having built a hospital, during the war, having no sides, but only a roof. This, and other radical measures, were followed by the best of results. After Butler, men lay in the rain for 24 to 48 hours, before receiving attention for their wounds, and made unusually good recoveries. Hospital gangrene was caused by bad air. In England they have learned that houses and tents are the soldiers' greatest enemies.

The society voted to have Dr. Bird's paper published.

At the evening session a general discussion was had, many cases being reported and commented upon in a manner both interesting and beneficial, but not easy to report without more space than is at command. These meetings are increasingly profitable to the participants. The association adjourned at 10 o'clock sine die.

FROM ASTORIA.

Incidents of the Quake—Crowded House Greets the Minstrels—How the Oregonian is Appreciated.

[FROM THE OREGONIAN'S LOCAL CORRESPONDENT.]

ASTORIA, May 1.

The earthquake shock of last night afforded a subject of general conversation to all throughout to-day. Each individual seems to have a varied experience and different sensation while it lasted. On one point all agreed and that was that it was the severest shock they had ever felt, a statement that was corroborated by many who resided in California in 1862 and 1868 and remembered the heavy shakes of those years in that state. More than one head of a family, roused from sleep by the noise and racket, convinced that burglars were trying to effect an entrance into their domicile, seized their revolvers in order to be prepared to meet them. Many ladies were very seriously frightened, one indeed was upset to such an extent that she is as yet seriously ill from the effects. In some of the stores piles of crockery and other articles were thrown from the shelves and found piled on the floor in the morning. Fortunately no buildings that we have heard of were overthrown, though much damage was done to plastered walls and ceilings in many of them.

Manager Stechhan can find no fault with the patronage Astorians bestow upon his efforts to cater to their amusement. Every company he has brought here has been very liberally patronized, but the Standard minstrels and Moulton's party were greeted with an overflowing house to-night, and judging from the number of persons who patiently stood up in the aisles, where no seats could be placed during the whole of the performance, our city sadly needs a larger and more comfortable hall for concerts and other entertainments. If one can judge from the frequent applause bestowed and repeated encores demanded, the performance as a whole gave complete satisfaction. Certainly the minstrel part was exceedingly good. The usual repartee between the interlocutor and end men was original, witty and new, and, to their credit be it said, free from slang and double entendre.

By some inadvertence or accident THE DAILY OREGONIAN of Saturday last, distributed by carriers, failed to arrive on the Portland boat, a circumstance which we sincerely hope will not happen again, as in such an event the negligence of perhaps one individual somewhere becomes a source of annoyance and disappointment to many scores of subscribers who look for their OREGONIAN on the arrival of the boat as regularly as they do for their daily bread. One satisfaction said negligent individual afforded your agent, and that was an opportunity to realize how thoroughly THE OREGONIAN is appreciated by its subscribers, and not to get it was to mourn the non-arrival of an expected friend. The missing bundles arrived to-day, and from their appearance seemed to have made a journey to the Sound or some far off country.

HANDEL AND HAYDN CONCERT.

The concert at New Market theater last evening must be noted as a red letter event among the past Handel and Haydn Society's entertainments. Many speculations had been rife in musical circles here as to whether the "Rose Maiden" would sustain the interest of a public audience. The performance of the cantata last evening had not proceeded beyond a few numbers before it became evident that apprehensions had been groundless. [illegible] the work and the performance of it must be left to a future issue. It may be said here, however, that the performance was highly successful from first to last. The chorus, supported by a small but effective orchestra, demonstrated thorough and painstaking training. Of the soloists it is only possible to speak in the most flattering terms. The Handel and Haydn second part was also thoroughly enjoyed. In short, a very large audience, ready to be critical, went away pleased and satisfied by as enjoyable a concert as the society has ever given.

DISAPPEARED.

Never by the light of history,
From full many a city mystery,
Shall the clouds of doubt be cleared.
Who can guess what deeds of plunder,
Homicide and worse, lie under
That provocate of wonder—
Disappeared?

If the darkness dumb could lisp, or
Wind, and wave, and earth could whisper
All their secrets wild and weird,
What dread comments would they mutter—
Making all our pulses flutter—
On that type of mystery utter—
Disappeared!

Strangers by the press gazetted
Lie in graves by tears unwetted,
Where no stones shall e'er be reared;
Husbands true and wives devoted,
Daughters on whom mothers doted,
Have too often thus been quoted—
Disappeared!

Maids have sought, betrayed to folly,
Secret gloom more melancholy
Than the open scorn they feared
Men too proud to beg or borrow
Crazed with penury and sorrow,
Have, to 'scape the coming morrow,
Disappeared.

But by secret murder banished;
From our city men have vanished,
Citizens beloved, revered.
Only in high heaven's consistory,
Shall we known the fearful history
Concealed beneath that word of mystery
Disappeared.

IRELAND'S WRONGS AND RIGHTS.

Judge Jere S. Black's Address at the Grattan Centennial in Baltimore.

BALTIMORE, April 18.—There was a very large attendance at the Concordia opera house to-night to hear the speech from Judge Jere S. Black, of Pennsylvania, on the Irish question. The occasion was the celebration of the centenary of Grattan's declaration of Irish independence. Mayor Whyte, of Baltimore, presided, and all the Irish societies of the city were present in regalia with full bands of music. There was much enthusiasm manifested, and Judge Black was frequently interrupted by loud cheers and applause. There were several speeches made besides that of Judge Black, among the speakers being Mr. W. E. Robinson of New York, and congressman Ford, of Missouri.

Judge Black claimed that Ireland, during her seven centuries of political bondage, had been denied, with one short interval excepted, the right of local self-government. In consequence she was oppressed, degraded, insulted, steeped in poverty to the very lips, and overwhelmed with all shame. "There was no real union between England and Ireland, and never was; they were pinned together with bayonets." [illegible] the Irish had been inferior to the race which [illegible] them down, their fate would seem [illegible] but intellectually and morally they [illegible]. The most shocking part of the story was the deliberate and long-continued effort of England to darken the mind of Ireland [illegible] unable by the confiscation of the land and the landlord system to earn a living by agriculture, the Irish [illegible] and manufactures, but bright hopes were blasted by penal legislation. They tried fighting, and each defeated effort to right themselves was made an excuse for the infliction of new outrages. Their claim for American sympathy could not be disputed. While this sympathy could not be shown by [illegible] between England and her subjects by any kind of force or violence, there were ways well understood of giving moral comfort and material aid which break no law. Judge Black then reviewed the operations and prosecution of the land league and the proceedings under the coercion act, and concluded as follows:

"What is to be the final outcome of the struggle? It needs no prophet to foresee that Ireland is doomed to total destruction if she be not supported and sustained by strength outside of her own. But if we, the American people, shall perform our duties fairly well, [illegible] our government shall not attempt to shirk its public responsibilities, the hope is a reasonable one that some of us now here may live to see Ireland redeemed, regenerated, and disenthralled.

"It seems to me that the friends of Ireland, at home as well as here, have very indefinite ideas of the ultimate purpose they are seeking to attain. Of course, they all desire to save their country. But what is salvation? In [illegible] is expected to come? [illegible] secure liberty, and prevent [illegible] from being robbed of the bread it [illegible] questions upon which there is [illegible] diversity of opinion, [illegible] a vagueness of thought, which greatly weakens the movement. I will not presume to advise them, but [illegible] that they should demand [illegible] unjust or unreasonable; [illegible] nothing [illegible] the rights of property [illegible] except what ought [illegible] should they specify [illegible]. Not independence. That is impossible. You might as well reach for the moon and hope to pull it down. Those two islands will never be politically separated, and it is not, by any means, certain that they ought to be. But local self-government is another thing. It is the interest of England, as well as her duty, to grant that. If the Irish people were in full possession of the right to administer their own domestic affairs they would be [illegible] to the empire a thousand times better than now. They would [illegible] England; not [illegible] the misfortune [illegible] how easily, [illegible] safely this unspeakable benefit might be bestowed. It is literally amazing to [illegible]. It is but erecting one or more [illegible] corporations, which you may call states or legislatures or provinces, to make, administer and execute laws upon subjects which concern nobody but themselves, and with such limitations upon the power as may seem necessary to prevent its possible abuse. If this, coupled with a satisfactory adjustment of land tenures, would not [illegible] Ireland on a career of peace and prosperity, then all history is false, all experience [illegible], and all philosophy a woven tissue of lies. Yet the average Englishman cannot hear of home rule for Ireland without becoming infuriated, and if he happens to be clothed with a little brief authority, he falls to killing and destroying right and left whenever he can find men with spirit and principle enough to express opinions in its favor. This insane animosity cannot last much longer. But political freedom can scarcely exist for a people subjected to the personal bondage of the Irish landlord system. Can that be abolished without violating honor and justice or breaking over the legal defenses of property? Let us see what can or cannot be done in that direction. It is a mere truism to say that the land belongs to the owners. The title is in the landlords, and cannot be questioned with any decent show of truth. To take it from them and give it to the tenants would be naked robbery, not in the least mitigated by the consideration that the tenants need it and the landlords can live without it. The eighth commandment is addressed alike to the poor and the rich."

IRISH IMMIGRANTS.

A Movement on foot for the Importation of Surplus Labor from the Green Isle.

Special to the Globe-Democrat.

PHILADELPHIA, April 18.—Prominent gentlemen of this city are now engaged in the movement to transport a large number of able-bodied Irishmen to this country. The scheme originated in London three weeks ago. A call for a meeting in that city was issued, and it was announced that important measures affecting the welfare of the government would be discussed. A large number of prominent philanthropists and manufacturers, representing both the tories and the liberals, met in response to the call. It was agreed to advocate a plan for the transportation of the surplus labor to this country, and a fund was started for that purpose, £8000 being subscribed. The duke of Bedford headed the list with a liberal contribution, and other prominent philanthropists followed suit. A committee was also appointed to further the movement. The committee requested James Hack Tuke, Esq., a prominent banker living near London, to act as its representative. Mr. Tuke left London for Ireland about two weeks ago, intending to make a tour of the western agricultural districts and organize the immigration movement. Mr. R. Pearsall Smith, of the firm of Whitehall, Salem & Co., who is one of the leaders of the movement in this city, has had several communications with Mr. James A. Wright, of the American Steamship Company, and the first ship-load of emigrants will be brought to this country as soon as the arrangements can be made. This movement, said Mr. Smith to-day, is assuming large proportions. It is well known that for several centuries the Irish manufactories have been systematically crushed, and leaving but one industry for the people, the cultivation of land. The present terrible condition of the west of Ireland can be plainly traced to the disturbance of the relations of supply and demand in labor. With only one occupation before them, the poor serfs are in excess of the supply of land, and consequently rackrents of the most exorbitant character are possible and are exacted by the landlords. At this time there seems to be no recourse from the miseries of Ireland except to reduce the surplus labor and so increase the demand for it. America urgently needs this surplus labor, and both philanthropy and self-interest demand that it shall be transferred to this country. Those who are interested in the movement have pledged themselves not to transport the sick, the pauper, or the criminal. Special care will be taken to prevent emigrants from remaining in the seaboard cities, and Archbishop Ireland of St. Paul, Minn., who has formed a number of successful colonies in the west, has kindly agreed to aid us. Mr. Smith says that the movement may assume such vast proportions that many thousands of immigrants will be brought here from Ireland and sent to the far west.

THE CHANNEL TUNNEL.

Chevalier Von Hesse-Wartegg Explains the Project in New York.

From the World.

Mr. Ernst Von Hesse-Wartegg lectured recently in the hall of the Academy of Medicine under the auspices of the Academy of Sciences. His topic was "The submarine tunnel between England and France." In 1874, he said, when the project was first talked of, many objections were urged, but no one thought of any political opposition. It was simply the solving of the problem of connecting a country with thirty millions of inhabitants and nations with two hundred and fifty millions. The width to be tunneled was twenty-two miles across the narrowest part of the channel between Dover and Calais. The first consideration was the character of the rock through which the tunnel would run. At the bottom of the channel was a bed of chalk. Not homogeneous, because there were to be great fissures in it. But it was believed that these fissures had been filled up with stones, gravel and silt, and were not, therefore, regarded as being great obstacles. Tunnels under the water were no new thing. Through the chalk-bed the channel was to be driven 350 feet below high-water level. It had been supposed that the water might seep through and fill the tunnel, but experiments had shown this to be an impossibility. The tunnel itself will run from the center down towards each shore at an incline of 1 to 2460. Four miles from each end it will begin an ascent on a grade of 1 to 80. So that a train will run down from England four miles, then run up to the center, then down again to within four miles of France and then up again to the station. Any water collecting will run down into sinks from which it may be pumped to the surface. The size of the tunnel will be 18 by 25 feet. It will be cased with brick and a space left for what water does come in to run down outside of the brick tube into a canal at the bottom. The brick tube will have two tracks. The lecturer gave an interesting description of the machine used. The chalk to be removed would make a pyramid as large as the great pyramid in Egypt and about 3800 working days will be required to complete the undertaking. It is estimated that the receipts will be from passengers, £850,000; from freight, £300,000; from mail, £50,000, or £1,200,000 in all. Expenses at 40 per cent. £468,000, leaving £732,000, which is equal to 7½ per cent. on £10,000,000 capital. The lecturer alluded at some length to the opposition the project had received from the people and concluded amid general applause.

Believed he was a Woman.

Quite a play of imagination occurred recently with a farmer in Pickens county, South Carolina. Very portly in size; he was taken sick—a general let-down of the nervous system—and, to the surprise of his friends, he imagined himself a woman, and so impressed was he with the belief that he drove every male doctor out of the house and sent three miles after a good old lady who for years had been nursing the sick, and nothing would do but she must rub him and "doctrify" him exactly as if he were a woman. The old lady humored his whims, even to making him hot teas and gruel, and after rubbing him an hour or two, she finally persuaded him the crisis was over and that instead of a woman he was a large, full-grown man. The regular physician rode home with mouth stretched, and the whole neighborhood got into such a tilt the portly and dignified gentleman cannot appear on the church ground Sundays without a smile all around. Dr. Folger pronounces it the only case of muleirific mania he has ever known recorded in this country.

ASSESSMENT AGAIN.

GASTON, May 1, 1882.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

Fear and doubt is expressed by many against the system of assessment of property, as advocated by THE OREGONIAN and some of its correspondents, as if it were some new and untried system, when in reality it is the system adopted by all the leading European nations for the assessment of their property, based on the experience of ages—i. e., money (bank notes or coin), in actual possession, is classed as personal property. Notes and accounts are the visible evidence of a lien, for a given amount, one person has on the property of another, and as such not taxable, and all personal property visible and tangible, and real estate, is assessed to the person holding or representing the same, with the result desired by this agitation, the tax of property to the district having jurisdiction over the same.

Another part of this law needs ventilation, subdivision 8, section 4, title I, chapter lvii. The personal property of every householder to the amount of three hundred dollars; the articles to be selected by such householder, shall be exempt from taxation. From the statistics in THE OREGONIAN Feb. 24th the amount of property in the state exempt from taxes under this head is $4,973,053, and so much more can be found that is not shown in the assessor's books, for when finding a man with no taxable real estate, and his exemption and debts equal to, if not in excess of, his personal property, his poll tax is collected and that is all; while a man not using a householder must pay on all his property in full in excess of his debts. Is not this a special law and contrary to the constitution making taxation just and uniform? One man in possession of only a shanty with a ten dollar household outfit is exempt from his share of the public burden on a part or all of his personal property, and another man not being a householder pays in full on all his own property and a portion of those that are exempt. This clause of the law in many rural districts exempts one-half the personal property from road and school taxes. Repeal this section and sufficient property can be found through the state, together with the discrepancy of notes and accounts, to reduce county taxes 5 mills on the dollar. Let our assessment law be thoroughly revised, taxing all property, real and personal, wherever found to the person holding or representing the same, excluding credits and that described in section 4, title I, chapter lvii, excluding subdivision 8, and taxation will be as near just and uniform as it is possible for human ingenuity to make them.

DR. PAUL M. BRENAN,
THE
Most Successful Physician on the Pacific Coast in the Treatment of
ALL CHRONIC & DIFFICULT DISEASES

DR. BRENAN WILL GUARANTEE TO CURE any form of disease of the generative organs or private diseases. He has become an expert in the treatment of disease, weakness and derangement of the reproductive organs of both male and female, including diseases caused by the FOLLIES OF YOUTH.

Such as Spermatorrhea, or Seminal Weakness, or Loss of Perfect Virility. Nearly two-thirds of all the chronic diseases spring either directly or indirectly from some derangement of the sexual system, and yet this subject is neglected by the majority of the Medical Profession.

I know that persons who are unfortunate enough to be afflicted by any form of sexual disease have a delicacy in calling upon the proper physician in time, from a sense of modesty and sometimes from ignorance, and permit these diseases to take root until constitutions become corrupted, their organization broken down, and the hope of future happiness blasted, until death becomes a welcome messenger to carry them out of their misery [illegible].

Everything strictly confidential under all circumstances.

Lost Manhood perfectly restored. Catarrh, Bronchitis, Throat Diseases, Skin Diseases, Rheumatism, Kidney Complaints, and all Diseases of the Eye and Ear, Stomach and Bladder, to be cured without fail.

Consultation free. [illegible] a list of printed questions sent to those living at a distance who cannot consult him personally. Enclose postage stamp for list.

Office—[illegible] Third st., opposite Masonic Hall. Office Hours—From 10 to 12 A. M., 2 to 5 and 7 to 8 P. M. All letters of professional business must be addressed to DR. PAUL M. BRENAN & CO., Portland, Oregon.

King of the Blood

Is not a "cure all," it is a blood purifier and tonic. Impurity of blood poisons the system, deranges the circulation, and thus induces many disorders known by different names to distinguish them according to effects, but being really branches or phases of that great generic disorder, Impurity of Blood. Such are Dyspepsia, Biliousness, Liver Complaint, Constipation, Nervous Disorders, Headache, Backache, General Weakness, Heart Disease, Dropsy, Kidney Disease, Piles, Rheumatism, Catarrh, Scrofula, Skin Disorders, Pimples, Ulcers, Swellings, &c., &c. King of the Blood prevents and cures these by attacking the cause, Impurity of the Blood. Chemists and physicians agree in calling it "the most genuine and efficient preparation for the purpose." Sold by Druggists, $1 per bottle. See testimonials, directions, &c., in pamphlet, "Treatise on Diseases of the Blood," wrapped around each bottle.
